TULIPS

(Ready in September)

Outdoor Culture.—Tulips succeed best in light soil and in a sunny situation. They should be planted by the end of October to get the best results. If the soil is heavy, sand should be mixed with it, and if the beds have been occupied with other plants through the summer, well-rotted cow-manure should be added. The bulbs should be planted evenly, about 4 inches deep to the bottom, and from 5 to 6 inches apart.

After the ground has been frozen, cover with leaves or dry litter, and remove the covering gradually in early spring.

Pot Culture.—A compost of two parts loam to one part light manure, with some sharp sand intermixed, is suitable. From three to five bulbs, according to size, in a 5-inch pot. Named varieties should be used. The pots should be filled lightly and the bulbs pressed well into the soil. The pots should then be buried in the open ground to a depth of 6 inches, and left there until they are well filled with roots—about six weeks. They may then be taken indoors. If a succession be desired, pot at intervals to about the end of November. Water freely and give manure-water after flower-spikes appear.

Number of Bulbs Required Planted 4 Inches Apart

For a round bed, 5 feet in diameter, 200 bulbs. For a 6-foot square bed, 375 bulbs. An oval bed, 7x11 feet, will require about 400 bulbs. An oblong bed, 2½x7 feet, can be made quite showy with 125 bulbs.

Wilson Quality Single Early Tulips

E, M, and L indicate the time of flowering—E, early; M, medium-early and L, late. The relative height of stems is indicated by t, tall; m, medium, and d, dwarf. Tall varieties grow 8 to 9 inches; medium, 7 to 8 inches, and dwarf, 6 to 7 inches.
